VISION STATEMENT:

"We are a community of thriving businesses enhancing the quality of life in Bend."

The History of Bend

Source: BendChamber.org

Until the winter of 1824, the Bend area was known only to native Americans who thrived off the areas rich streams and lakes and an arid climate home to bear, elk, mountain lions and deer. Members of a fur trapping party led by Peter Skene Ogden were the earliest visitors to this beautiful area, followed by John Fremont and other Army survey parties. After west-bound pioneers came through and forded the Deschutes River at “Farewell Bend”, a small community developed around the bend in the river, and in 1905 the community was incorporated as a city with approximately 300 citizens.

Following the Oregon Trunk Railroad completion in 1911, the growth of the vibrant Bend community began. 1914 brought two major lumber companies, and timber became the mainstay of the local economy. Mt. Bachelor ski area became the catalyst for Bend’s visitor industry, generating industrial and commercial expansion. Wood products are still Bend’s leading economic factor, with tourism the second largest industry. Along with other diversified industries, Bend is Central Oregon’s retail hub.

Though the sawmills have long been closed, the lifestyle and vibrant culture of a once booming and still shining town remains. Today, the old Brooks-Scanlon mill that is the “Old Mill” is humming once again, not with mills, but with the sounds of people enjoying vibrant shopping, dining and entertainment by day and night.

Bend’s historic Downtown area, full of art, mouth watering cuisine and unique artisan shops is bustling with year-round activities and events. Relax on the grassy Drake Park and listen to free summer music while indulging in tastes from Bend’s finest restaurants and eats.

Bend prides itself on keeping a deep-seated tradition of welcoming visitors and newcomers to the historic roots and now vibrant community of Bend, Oregon.

The Frontiers Men

Source: <http://www.bend.or.us/>

Not until 1834, so far as is known, did the first white explorers visit the Bend country. They were members of the Nathaniel Wyeth party who came from their camp on the Columbia River seeking beaver. Prior to the Wyeth visit to the area, Peter Skene Ogden had visited Central Oregon in 1825-26, but his beaver trail took him up Crooked River past the Prineville site and east into the John Day Valley. The Wyeth trail was pretty well erased when the next explorers visited the area. That was the John C. Fremont party that toted a cannon over Tumalo Creek just west of Bend and on south to the Klamath Marsh area before crossing the highlands into the lake country and naming Summer Lake.

Gold hunters undoubtedly crossed close to the present Bend area in their rush to the John Day Valley with its golden pebbles in 1862, but left no trace of their visit. Then came the pioneer stockmen to take advantage of the verdant meadows of the upper Deschutes country. One early-day stockman filed on a portion of the present site of Bend, but his identity is unknown. He is merely a number in the US Land Office records in The Dalles; the filing was made on July 11, 1874. Later, others filed on the same land. One of these early claimants was Tom Greer.

Out of the north from Tygh Valley in 1877 came John Y. Todd, to buy the relinquished right of Tom Greer to the old "Farewell Bend" Ranch for $60 and two saddle horses. The pioneer ranch was near the former Brooks-Scanlon plant, which is now known as the Old Mill District, on the east side of the Deschutes River. At the ranch travelers obtained their last view of the Deschutes in its majestic sweep around great bends, and the ranch obtained the name of "Farewell Bend."

There was no thought of an eventual town or a city at the present Bend locale in those pioneer days. But on a spring day in 1900, there arrived on the present site the covered wagon of Alexander M. Drake, a Midwest capitalist, who heard of irrigation possibilities in the upper Deschutes country. He founded the Pilot Butte Development Company, and the nucleus of Bend began with the construction of a lodge. Bend became incorporated by a vote of the people in 1904, with officers taking over their duties in January, 1905. A.H. Goodwillie was the first mayor.

A Name for the town

Source: <http://www.bend.or.us/>

Earlier, when Bend's future was still uncertain, there was a controversy over a name for the new hamlet. In the late 1870's, William H. Staats filed a claim on the Deschutes near the "Farewell Bend" Ranch (which had been obtained by John Sisemore from John Todd) and made a rival bid for travelers. Each maintained a stopping place and each for a time had a post office. Staats platted his town as "Deschutes." Some called the community "Staats." Drake favored the name "Pilot Butte" and a bid was made for "Farewell Bend." But officials in the Post Office Department in Washington, DC, decided Farewell Bend was too long and they finally approved the name "Bend." After Bend's incorporation, it gradually absorbed Deschutes.

Virtually tax-free operating environment

By: Economic Development for Central Oregon

Oregon consistently ranks among the lowest cost states for business according to independent research organizations such as Forbes, Ernst & Young, The Tax Foundation, and the American Institute for Economic Research. In addition to this distinction, the state also has more tools and incentives encouraging job growth and investment than any of its Western neighbors, including Washington, California, Idaho, and Nevada.

Through incentives, Oregon offers (to employers that qualify) a virtually tax-free operating environment – both in the short and long term. Often overlooked is Oregon’s “Single Sales Factor” for determining state corporate income taxes which favors employers that sell their products outside the state. In fact, it’s a significant reason Intel has its largest operation in the world here and why multinational companies like Nike, Columbia Sportswear, and Precision Castparts Corporation have their headquarters in Oregon.

An exhibit in energy efficiency.

In addition to conserving and displaying natural and cultural resources, the High Desert Museum is now conserving another resource: energy. As a Pacific Power customer, the museum took advantage of cash incentives from Energy Trust of Oregon to upgrade its lighting to energy-efficient LEDs. The new lighting produces less heat, which helps conserve the artifacts, and with lower operating and labor costs, it's better for the bottom line, too. See how incentives can make your business more efficient. Call Energy Trust at 1-866-368-7878, or visit bewattsmart.com.

THE BEND CHAMBER

When it comes to business in Bend, no organization has been looking out for the best interest of this community longer than the Bend Chamber of Commerce. Since 1926 the Bend Chamber has worked to support its mission of ensuring the economic vitality of Bend through programs and practices that put businesses in the position to thrive – individually and collectively.

From traditional Ribbon Cuttings and Business After Hours events, to newer and more progressive programs such as “What’s Brewing? - Bend’s Town Hall”, Young Professionals Network and the Women’s Round Table Series, the Bend Chamber provides the tools and the resources Bend businesses, visitors, relocators and the community at large need to succeed.

Membership in the Bend Chamber of Commerce is much more than a plaque on the wall, the fulfillment of a sense of civic obligation or the means to generate new business. Rather, membership represents a commitment to the continued prosperity of the Bend Economy. It’s a means of facilitating meaningful and impactful change, of accessing and taking advantage of valuable educational opportunities and interacting with like-minded individuals and businesses that share the same dedication to fostering a livable, sustainable and prosperous Bend.

As one of the only Chambers of Commerce in the Western United States that is supported 100 percent by members, The Bend Chamber receives no government funding and as such remains an unbiased advocate for the best interests of the business community. This allows the Bend Chamber to lobby hard on behalf of its members when it comes to civic matters and to take on controversial issues others cannot or do not for political and other reasons.

The Bend Chamber has been here for the business community for over 85 years. Encouraging business development, support, retention and recruitment to community development, information dissemination and issues management, the Bend Chamber takes the lead - yesterday, today and tomorrow.

For businesses seeking education, outreach, advocacy, networking and more, and who want their membership dollars to work hard for them in the hands of local stewards, there is and always has been one clear leader, the Bend Chamber Commerce. Where Bend does business.

Connecting PEOPLE TO Opportunities

A message from the City of Bend about the Bend Business Advocate

Connecting people to opportunities has always been a mantra for Carolyn Eagan.

Even as a young person studying urban planning and economics at the University of Pennsylvania, Eagan noticed disconnects and missed opportunities all around her. Philadelphia's inner core was dying, jobs were moving to the suburbs, and bus lines were being cut.

"How are they supposed to stay employed if they can't get to work?" she wondered.

Now, as the City of Bend's Business Advocate, it's the focal point for her career and a major boon to local businesses.

It's this kind of insight that's driving the City of Bend's efforts to connect economic development with infrastructure planning, a realistic fee structure and quick turnaround times on new projects.

Her philosophies and plans are based on a solid foundation of knowledge about development in Bend. After working for the Oregon Employment Department as the Regional Economist in Bend for three and a half years, the City of Bend hired Carolyn in 2012 to take on the role of business advocate.

"My time with the employment department helped me understand what's driving the local economy," said Eagan. "It helped me understand the local needs and opportunities."

The city will find it by developing industries in five key areas, she said: aviation, outdoor products, software and technology, advanced manufacturing, and biotech.

"These are the industries that present the greatest opportunity, and where we have infrastructure to build on," she said.

But for those industries to develop, it became clear that the city of Bend needed to take a lead role in developing a road map for success.

Following the crash, City Manager Eric King reached out to local business leaders for advice. Their response was that the city should take a leadership role in shaping its own destiny. Through King's initiative, the city formed the Bend Economic and Development Advisory Board and created the business advocate position to help orchestrate the effort. BEDAB undertook a lengthy process to set a vision and develop a plan for actively shaping Bend's economic future.

Ultimately they decided on the theme of "Bend: the lifestyle city cultivating tomorrow's economy." And with the knowledge that access to resources was going to be key in bringing about the change they were seeking, they decided to develop the Bend for Business Website.

"I'd encourage anyone looking at starting a business, growing a business, or relocating a business to take advantage of the resources available through the Bend for Business website," says Eagan. "And if you're not sure where to begin, give me a call and we'll navigate the process together."

In many cases, she said, the city can provide the needed business support resources. In other cases it's going to be Economic Development for Central Oregon, the Bend Chamber of Commerce, the Small Business Development Center, or Visit Bend.

What more can we say about Bend?

Lots! Bend has grown from its early ranching roots in the early 1800s, to a vibrant hub of entrepreneurs and adventure lovers. Everywhere you turn in this city of over 80,000 residents you will find breathtaking views. Recreation of all facets is only minutes away and there is an abundance of restaurants, breweries, shopping and arts and culture.

The city, nestled in Central Oregon's high desert, enjoys the high-altitude desert weather with a lot of sunny days per year. Our moderate temperatures allow residents to enjoy the incredible geographical diversity of the area throughout all four seasons.

And if you are someone that likes to stay on the move, just about every week of the year you will find festivals, fairs, parades, markets, concerts or theatre shows of one kind or another to entertain you.

"The wild and scenic Deschutes River flows deep inside the pine forests of the Cascade Mountains to the sunny, high desert haven of Bend, a destination that's become synonymous with adventure. Rock climbing, mountain biking, camping, hiking, and even skiing at nearby Mount Bachelor are all in play in Bend, but it's still a river town at heart. World-renowned fly fishing and easy access to notable rapids like 'First Street' originally put Bend on the map, and the river remains the biggest attraction."

BUSINESS IS GOOD IN

Spring

So are the roaring rapids

You'll find the changing seasons don't stop the adventures in this Central Oregon city. So what's your pleasure: hiking, shopping, skiing or perhaps you'd rather take the spring season to rejuvenate your business?

HIKING

While some of the upper elevation hikes don't open until early to mid summer, there are still plenty of great trails to walk, hike, or bike on in and around Bend. Recreationalists who are looking for more hiking and motorized sports opportunities can travel just east of Bend where there are miles of desert administered by the Bureau of Land Management, with much of it open for activities. For more information on great hikes and trails through the Deschutes and Ochoco National Forests, stop by the Bend Chamber office and get directions!

FISHING

Don't hesitate to take your rod and reel out to one of the nationally renowned streams and rivers like the Deschutes River. Or, head west on Century Drive to test your skills on one of the many lakes in the region (several have lodges) such as Elk Lake, Lava Lake, Cultus Lake, and Wickiup reservoir. And if you want to find some of the best spots, stop into some of the local fly shops. These anglers always know where the best bites are!

KAYAKING

Though it might seem a little cool for you, the die-hard fanatics take their kayaks and stand-up paddle boards out to the local lakes and Deschutes River. Just make sure you dress appropriately and have plenty of warm, dry blankets and clothes in your car!

The Bend Chamber rolls out the red carpet for its annual SAGE Awards each spring. This is a night of elegance at its best. A night of glitz and glamour to celebrate the region's finest citizens and businesses.

"The SAGE Awards honors the very best business achievements of our community," said Robin Rogers, senior vice president of programs and events for the Bend Chamber. "The success of the SAGE Award winners is a true testament to their dedication, ingenuity and vision."

As you enter the Great Hall with friends and family, be prepared to be swept away. Enjoy live jazz while you wine, dine and rub elbows at the who's who event of Bend.

"It's an all-inclusive event with attendees ranging from small mom-and-pop shop owners all the way to representatives from the Senate floor," she said.

After guests enjoy a decadent five-course meal, the awards ceremony begins with a presentation from the honor guard and the national anthem.

Throughout the evening, ten Bend Chamber members are recognized with awards ranging from Citizen of the Year and the People's Choice Award, to the Healthy Workplace Award and both Small and Large Business of the Year.

"These recipients work so hard day in and day out," Rogers said. "We want our community and beyond to know who they are and what their accomplishments have been."

So are the hikes, harvest and business events!

Shh! One of the best kept secrets about Bend is our shoulder season in the Fall. The weather is just perfect, not too hot - not too cold, and the locals know it's a great time to soak in some of Bend's arts and culture.

Make your way to downtown Bend for First Friday Art Walk (all year long). Visitors and residents can enjoy complimentary beverages and snacks as they stroll through eclectic boutiques filled with displays from our local artists. Leave the hustle and bustle behind and take a walk through Drake Park along Mirror Pond where you can breathe in the crisp fall air and savor the sound of fall foliage crunching under your shoes as you witness a landscape of vibrant color.

Depending on what fall weekend you find yourself downtown, you could stumble across yodelers and a wiener dog race to benefit the Central Oregon Humane Society during Bend's annual Oktoberfest. Or you might find Wall and Bond Streets have transformed into a harvest market with an array of art, music and food during the Bend Fall Festival.

Bend is the host of a myriad of events each fall. They range from the Bend Venture Conference, the largest angel investor conference in the Pacific Northwest, to the BendFilm Festival, which celebrates independent cinema, and Bend WebCAM, a web, social media, creative and marketing conference that attracts some of the country's most dynamic speakers and innovative thinkers.

And on Nov. 11, citizens line the streets as about 200 vehicles, floats and organizations honor our veterans in the second largest veteran's parade in the state.

Music IN THE High Desert

By Ted Engstrom, Sunday Guitars

"Premium" is the word that best describes the musical experience in Bend, Oregon. From the Central Oregon Symphony to Open Mic Wednesdays at The Lot and so much more, there is music, music and MUSIC in Bend.

Bend plays host to many festivals where local acts can be seen and heard in every corner. Local pubs, bars and breweries play a large role in hosting musical groups, as do the schools, churches, conventions and municipal functions.

Bend's history is filled with sparkling career musicians as well. A local boy, Lonnie Chapan, hit it big when he was asked to tour as bass player with the rock band, Petrafr. Local retirees, Norm Sundholm and Jack Ely, were a bassist and vocalist, respectively, for the world famous The Kingsmen. Not to mention the duo we like to call our own, Marv and Rindy Ross. And if you ask any local music lover, they can name any number of locals that helped shape the music scene in our entire country, not just Bend.

One of the finest features of Bend's musical community is the all-volunteer Central Oregon Symphony. This amazing group of 60+ musicians puts together three shows in a three-day period, three times per calendar year. That's nine free concerts. Wow! If you haven't seen and heard the symphony, you must! You will see why these shows are sold out every time by loyal fans.

Music is not the most important thing in life, but it's not too far down on the list from food, water and shelter for some. Make sure you find your music in Bend, whether you're just passing through or staying here for the long haul.

Sunday Guitars is the small town music store you have been dreaming about.

Winter

BUSINESS IS GOOD IN

so is the hot cocoa & snow

"From the top of the strato-volcano of Mount Bachelor, you get spectacular 360-degree views of the Cascade Mountain Range – on clear days you can see not only the 'in-your-face' views of the Broken Top crater and the Three Sisters, but to the north, Mount Hood, Washington's Mount Adams and Mount Thielson, and California's Mount Shasta to the south. It also boasts one of the longest ski season in North America. You can ski and ride from November through May, and you can also ski around the entire mountain."

–USA Today, January 2014

How does one describe winter in Bend? Imagine opening your window or looking out your sliding door in the early hours of the morning. A fresh layer of white powder gleams on the ground. As the sun's rays hit the snow, the ground lights up with thousands of microscopic rainbows from diamonds. The trees look like something out of a fantasy movie with just the perfect touch of green and snow. And if you look closely, you might just notice the tracks from a small herd of deer or other adventurous creatures.

If you feel like the only place to come alive in the winter is on the slopes, do we have a mountain for you! Located just 22 miles west of Bend, you'll find Mt. Bachelor. This is one of the largest ski areas in the U.S. that not only has Olympic quality slopes, but it also receives an average of 370 inches of fluffy, white powder each year.

The slopes of Mt. Bachelor beckon skiers, snowboards and snow tubers. Guests can ski or snowboard 360 degrees off the summit, hike a cinder cone for an exhilarating run, ski through the trees, take a ride through the tubing park or work their skills on the snowboard half-pipe! With 3,000 acres of lift-accessible terrain, there is something for every level skier, snowboarder, or winter enthusiast.

The winter experience doesn't end there! Did you know Mt. Bachelor is surrounded by 2 million acres of Deschutes National Forest? There is a fantastic network of trails and wilderness areas that attract cross-country skiers, snowshoers, dog sled enthusiasts, snowmobilers and winter campers of all skill levels.

Bachelor, fly fishing the Deschutes, mountain biking Phil's Trail, climbing Smith Rock, water skiing on Lake Billy Chinook or cycling the Cascade Lakes Highway, you could use a good beer. Or a bottle of fine wine. Or Italian-influenced gnocchi." – The Oregonian, April 2014

WHAT ABOUT THE FACT THAT THE OLDEST KNOWN WRITTEN RECIPE WAS FOR BEER? THESE ARE FASCINATING AND TOTALLY AUTHENTIC TIDBITS GLEANED FROM VARIOUS SOURCES AROUND THE WORLD ABOUT ONE OF MANKIND'S FAMOUS TIPPLES—BEER. BUT THERE IS FAR MORE TO A PINT OF BEER THAN SIMPLY DRINKING AND ENJOYING ITS TASTE. IN FACT, THERE ARE MANY DIFFERENT WAYS IT CAN BE USED.

a BOOMING CRAFT beverage industry

By: Rachael Rees van den Berg
Bend Chamber Communications Coordinator

In Bend it's not taboo to sip a savory pint of a local brew over a business meeting.

In fact, you're likely to find entrepreneurs discussing the future of their businesses at Economic Development for Central Oregon's PubTalks. And during the Bend Chamber of Commerce's Pints with our Pillars Series and What's Brewing? Bend's Town Hall, audience members are encouraged to have a pint with different visionaries and leaders in our community.

Bend is an epicenter of craft beverages. With nearly two dozen breweries and pubs, three distilleries, two cideries and several wine bars, there is no shortage of options to wet your whistle!

This industry is a vital part of the local economy, creating local employment and attracting tourists to our mountain city of about 82,000. For years Bend has been a destination for outdoor recreation, but now it can also boast a new reputation as "Beer Town USA" and "Beervana." Beer lovers from around the world come to experience the Bend Ale Trail and our beer-centric events including Bend BrewFest, the Little Woody Barrel-Aged Brew & Whiskey Festival and The Fermentation Celebration.

BEER

*By: Rachael Rees van den Berg
Bend Chamber Communications Coordinator*

Visit Bend, the city's tourism agency, estimates it distributed about 80,000 copies of the Bend Ale Trail Atlas – a passport beer enthusiasts can get stamped at 14 different breweries for a prize – during 2014. And with the growth of other craft beverage segments in the community, Visit Bend has plans to expand its tourism marketing program to include distillers, cideries, kombucha breweries and wineries through a new route called “Drinkable Detours Along the Bend Ale Trail.”

Many of the breweries and other alcoholic beverage producers are tourist attractions, said Damon Runberg, Regional Economist for the Oregon Employment Department. They draw visitors throughout the year who spend money at our restaurants, shops, hotels and recreation facilities, he said.

Runberg said alcohol production is an important component of Bend's economy. In the third quarter of 2014 there was an average of 917 jobs in Bend businesses that produce alcoholic beverages, according to data from Runberg. Bend's 21 breweries and pubs accounted for 94 percent of those jobs. While alcohol-producing businesses only accounted for around 2 percent of the total employment within the city, in the third quarter alone those businesses paid out more than $7.3 million in wages.

Employment levels in the industry nearly doubled between 2011 and 2014, according to Runberg. They grew by a staggering 19.2 percent – more than 148 jobs – from 2013 to 2014. This was much faster than the Deschutes County economy as a whole, which grew by just over 5 percent during the same period, he said.

“The impact of these alcohol-producing establishments goes beyond the jobs and wages paid,” Runberg said. “These businesses distribute their tasty craft beverages outside the region, bringing fresh dollars into the local economy.”

And the industry keeps growing.

The Brewers Association ranked Deschutes Brewery, Bend's first brewery founded in June 1988, as the sixth-largest craft brewer in the U.S. in 2013. Several Bend breweries, including Deschutes Brewery, 10 Barrel Brewing Co. and Worthy Brewing Co., as well as Atlas Cider, have undergone expansions in the last year. In fact, Deschutes Brewery announced plans for its largest, most expensive expansion in its 25-year history last year.

Tips for TOASTING

By: Tim Casey, President & CEO Bend Chamber

Giving a toast is a great honor to the speaker and an expression of goodwill to the recipients. It can also be a source of great anxiety to the person honored to give the toast.

As a member of Toastmasters, I can empathize with your pain. But rest assured, there are tools to help you give a speech your family and friends will be proud of.

First of all, let's call attention to the elephant in the room: You will be nervous. Accept it, embrace it, and realize that it's not a bad thing. Everyone gets nervous before a public speech. From elected officials and your favorite movie star, to people who publically speak for a living, each of them will feel those butterflies in the stomach; some of them just hide it better than others. The good news is, there are tricks to get those pesky butterflies flying in formation.

The number one fear in public speaking is that you will forget what to say. You're up in front of everyone you know and love, you stand to give the toast, all eyes go to you, and suddenly there's nothing there! Your brain has gone completely blank! Never fear, the first simple tool you're going to use is to write your speech down. It is impossible to forget what you are going to say if it's written down. It is perfectly acceptable to give a prepared speech. What you will most likely find, however, is that as you read the first part of your speech, the words will begin to flow.

Second, you're going to read your speech out loud a few times. As you do this, recognize that what you have written down needs to sound authentic, meaning it needs to sound like something you might normally say. Make your speech familiar to you first, and the crowd will accept it as genuine.

Third, you're going to tell a story. People relate better to storytelling than any other form of conversation. Some of the best toasts I've heard start with a story heading one direction and end another. Be humorous, but not overly so. Remember, it's a celebratory toast not a joke.

Finally end it on a positive note. Be upbeat and inspirational with your tone. You're looking for that "ahhh" factor from the crowd.

In the end, it's about the people you are toasting, not yourself, which should take a lot of the pressure off. Giving a toast is a great honor and most of us will only give a handful of public speeches in a lifetime. Enjoy the moment and have fun. Best wishes to you.

A LITTLE HISTORY ON THE "TOAST"

According to various apocryphal stories, the custom of touching glasses evolved from concerns about poisoning. By one account, clinking glasses together would cause each drink to spill over into the others' (though there is no real evidence for such an origin). According to other stories, the word toast became associated with the custom in the 17th century, based on a custom of flavoring drinks with spiced toast. The word originally referred to the lady in whose honor the drink was proposed, her name being seen as figuratively flavoring the drink. The International Handbook on Alcohol and Culture says toasting "is probably a secular vestige of ancient sacrificial libations in which a sacred liquid was offered to the gods: blood or wine in exchange for a wish, a prayer summarized in the words 'long life!' or 'to your health!'"

Located in southeast Bend, the Old Mill District is one of the most recognizable areas in the city. An interesting historical note, this shopping district is built on the former site of one of the largest pine mills in the nation. Just over 60 years ago, you would have still heard the hum of the saws and seen logs floating down the Deschutes River. On sunny days, if you look in just the right spots, you can still see a few logs at the bottom of the river.

Today, the Old Mill District features a great mixture of independent, regional, and national retailers that include everything from jewelry to artwork to clothing to outdoor gear. The area also features a variety of restaurants, lodging, and a 16 screen stadium seating movie theater with IMAX.

Take a break from shopping and walk along the Deschutes River on the paved path or consider renting a bike or surrey. Make sure to take time to watch the ducks, geese, otters, rafters, and kayakers that populate the area.

Location: 520 Southwest Powerhouse Drive

Direction: From Third Street, head west on Reed Market Road. When you come to the round about, take your first right onto Bond St., then take a left at Powerhouse Dr.

ARE YOU into CUSTOM CARS?

Stop by and say hi to Gordon!

The creative force behind everything that A-Team Racing LLC produces is Pro Builder Gordon Aram. Gordon has his hands in every aspect of the build from beginning to end. At the completion of your dream ride experience there isn't a nut, bolt or part that hasn't had to meet Gordon's approval.

The custom car bug bit Gordon at an early age, quite literally. While attending a circus in Kent, England, 8-year-old Gordon was excitedly watching a live appearance of Chitty Chitty Bang Bang when the car lost control and ran over Gordon and his sister. After an incident like that, most would not be fans of custom cars; Gordon, however, couldn't wait to dig in and find out what went wrong. Following that brush with arguably the grandfather of all custom cars, he has been modifying cars ever since. With over 30 years of experience in the automotive industry, Gordon has worked in the field in some way since the age of 12.

Gordon has built many cars for the SEMA Convention in Las Vegas. You can see his work in Hot Rodding, CarCraft, Mustangs & Fast Fords, plus numerous interviews on Velocity TV.

This year, Gordon and his crew took one of the Top-10 spots for Best Builder in North America and will be featured on an upcoming SEMA Ignite Builders Challenge on Velocity TV. They have also won at both East and West coast Autorama's Best Pro Street Car of the Year and Outstanding Engineer of the Year.

Gordon spent 6 years as an NHRA driver,

10 years SVRA and 6 years SCCA Racing.

Relying on his experience in repairing and customizing automobiles and his time as a professional race driver, during the 2009 One Lap of America race Gordon accomplished a childhood dream of designing, building and driving his own car in competition at the world-famous Daytona Speedway.

Gordon's company also does amazing restoration work. He takes the time to look at every historical photo and literature to make sure the car is correct for the period it represents.

BACK IN BUSINESS

WITH LESSONS LEARNED BEND IS POISED FOR MAJOR GROWTH

As the recession fades in the rear view mirror, Bend has again emerged as one of the brightest locations in the country for economic growth. With a fast growing and educated population, a low business tax rate, and unparalleled outdoor recreation opportunities it's easy to see why hundreds more companies are relocating or launching in Central Oregon every year. It's true, the 2007 housing crash hit Bend hard, but in the last six years we've rebounded stronger than ever.

Before the housing market crash in 2007, construction was king in Bend. About one in five businesses were construction-related back then. When the bottom fell out more than 500 construction-related firms either went broke or left town. The industries failure was a staggering blow. Here's the good news: The overall number of firms in Bend hasn't changed since then. For just about every construction company that went away, another and different sort of firm has sprung up in its place. Now we're seeing only one in 10 businesses related to construction and instead hundreds more technology, manufacturing, education and health services firms. This means a strong foundation for employment and a stable, resilient economy ensuring we never again see another 2007.

Public investment is our top priority. The people who live here believe in Bend's future and are willing to put their money on the line. Since 2007—and in the middle of a recession—we've passed a $42 million community college capital improvement bond, a $96 million schools bond and a $29 million parks and recreation bond. What's more, the City of Bend has planned $250 million in capital improvements for the next two years, including major sewer system upgrades prioritized on the immediate needs of the business community. The bottom line: we're invested in sustainable growth around here.

A business support alliance with a vision for Central Oregon. Under the umbrella of the Bend Economic Development Advisory Board, the City of Bend has created a unified front of organizations galvanized around recruiting and supporting businesses setting up shop in Bend.

In recent years, key partners Economic Development for Central Oregon, Bend Chamber of Commerce, the Small Business Development Center, Visit Bend and the City of Bend have developed a strategic plan for bringing businesses to Bend and retaining them through a high level of support and coordination of economic development projects.

Since 2007, industries such as brewing, bioscience, aviation, technology and software have all developed very real clusters in Bend. There's no underestimating the value of this kind of close physical proximity from a deeper workforce pool to the potential for collaboration to the ability to attract other key supporting businesses to the area. Supporting these industry clusters has also become a key part of the mission of groups such as the Bend Chamber, Economic Development for Central Oregon and the Small Business Development Center. Whether it's holding networking roundtables or recruiting missing links in these business groupings, business support organizations have their pulse on the needs of these growing industries and see it as their job to meet that need. It's all part of the mission to strategically cultivate and sustain economic success in Central Oregon.

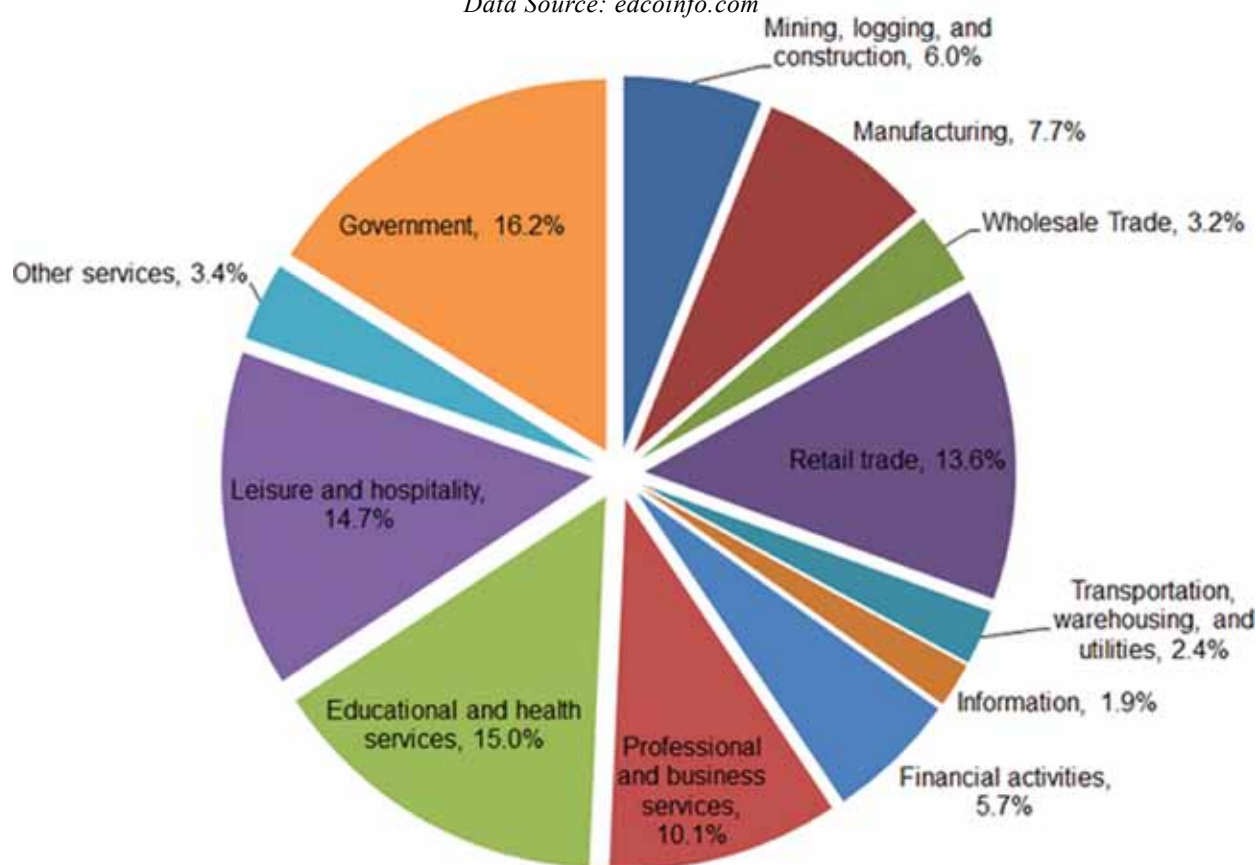

Oregon State University-Cascades is a reality. Just a few years back it appeared OSU-Cascades was ready to be axed as part of a group of state programs on the chopping block during the recession. Thanks to the vocal outcry of our community and elected leaders, we staved off that fate. Then last year, the Legislature approved a plan to propel OSU-Cascades into a fully-fledged four-year university—a move made in no small part because this community pulled together more than $1 million in just a month to help fund the capital needs of the school. By 2025, the university will serve 5,000 students ensuring the flow of millions and millions of new dollars through this community and a bright future for economic development in Bend.

It's a safe bet that Bend will continue to earn accolades as this community grows. Few cities have had as much praise headed on them in recent years as our high desert home including: The next big city for entrepreneurship from Entrepreneur Magazine, one of the world's top 25 ski towns from National Geographic Adventure, America's top adventure town from Men's Journal, one of America's most romantic cities from liveability.com, one of the top 10 fly-fishing towns in the U.S. from Fly Fisherman, America's best trail running town from Outside, and the #1 mountain biking town in the U.S. from Mountain Bike Action.

City Business Incentives & Finance Programs

A Message from Carolyn Eagan, Bend Business Advocate

The City of Bend has a number of programs aimed at assisting businesses in town.

The Business Recruitment Fund was created to assist with business relocation to the City of Bend. If a business has shown significant interest in relocating their business to Bend, we have funds available to make their visit to Bend memorable.

The City has adopted an Enterprise Zone that covers the majority of the City's industrial and light industrial zones.

The Enterprise Zone provides specific tax abatements for new equipment and new construction projects within such zones.

There is also an E-Commerce Zone within the City focused on technology related companies.

For specific information on the program contact EDCO at 541-388-3236.

The City currently has three System Development Charge (SDCs) Finance Programs. The first finances SDC fees at 6% for 5 years. The second finances SDC fees at 7% for 10 years. The third is for proposed development that will create jobs. A 3-year 0% financing option is offered for commercial and industrial development that can demonstrate higher than average wages or significant job creation.

The City also has an SDC Deferral Program allowing the deferral of SDC payments for either 9 months or prior to the final inspection and issuance of the Certificate of Occupancy. Applications for such programs are reviewed by the Community Development Department.

Central Oregon Intergovernmental Council (COIC) offers flexible public loan programs for start-ups or growing businesses. COIC loans can finance real estate, equipment, or working capital, usually in partnership loan package with a bank lender. In some cases, COIC can finance the entire project, while the bank retains the customer relationship. Check them out here <http://coic2.org/loans> or call COIC at 541-548-8163.

The City supports and facilitates creation and expansion of all business -- large and small. If you have any questions, or are a business considering a relocation to Bend, contact the City's Business Advocate, Carolyn Eagan at ceagan@bendoregon.gov, or 541-388-5529

Optimism Reigns

* 2014 RECAP | BEND CHAMBER ECONOMIC FORECAST BREAKFAST | AUTUMN EVENT *

By: Courtney Linville

Optimism and good news reigned during the Bend Chamber's Vision 2015 Economic Forecast Breakfast featuring Tim Duy, Professor of Practice at the University of Oregon and Sr. Director of the Oregon Economic Forum and Mark Kralj, Principal at Ferguson Wellman Capital Management.

Topics ranged from things close to home like employment, housing and education, to a more global view with oil, the strength of the dollar and inflation.

Starting with unemployment, Duy pointed out Central Oregon continues to see improvement. When we finally get below 6 percent, we will definitely start seeing some interesting changes.

Duy also pointed out Central Oregon has been adding more jobs than other cities across the state. He says the biggest improvements we have seen are in professional and business services. This is good news as the region diversifies from construction and hospitality and leisure.

Duy pointed out the region is starting to blossom out of one focused industry, finding other sectors for balance. This includes the tech industry with its higher paying jobs.

Kralj noted the recent investment of close to $1 million in local emerging companies at the Bend Venture Conference. He said we need to see more of this in the future.

Tied into continued job growth will be education. Both Duy and Kralj noted growing concerns across communities statewide of keeping their youth local to fill needed jobs.

They agree OSU-Cascades will help to fill some of the gap locally. However, the region still needs to focus on pulling in new workers, they said.

Duy believes people will chase jobs, and Central Oregon needs to continue to push not only quality of life, but good high-paying jobs.

"Oregon is not as unique as we like to think we are," Duy said.

Also of note, we have an aging workforce with more and more boomers starting to retire. Duy stated this has helped to improve the employment rates as more men and women in the younger generations come into the workforce.

However, with the recession and the fact the average individual has little to no savings, some workers will stay in the field longer than normal. Duy said this could cause employers to rethink their workforce strategies.

Turning to inflation, Kralj pointed out inflation remains well below the 2 percent Federal target.

"The United States has the strongest economy in the world," he said.

Kralj relayed global information backing up his points stating China is going through a real estate bubble and many countries are fighting deflation instead of inflation.

Duy said we are continuing to grow our economy, just maybe not at pre-recession levels.

Oil prices are also having an impact globally. Prices are declining due to less demand. This is hurting many countries including Russia.

Duy pointed out oil prices and lower natural gas prices are bringing some manufacturing jobs back into the U.S. from foreign nations.

Coming back to the U.S., both speakers agreed the lower oil prices will help to keep more money in consumers' pockets. Whether or not they choose to spend it remains to be seen.

Duy kept honing in on the idea that the main driver for growth in the U.S. will be domestic demand. And there is still plenty of room for growth, he said.

Many people are keeping an eye on rate hikes and how that will impact the economy. Duy was quick to say he's not afraid of rate hikes because it shows conditions are improving. So when will rates start to rise? Both Kralj and Duy believe sometime in June 2015.

The words the entire room of over 250 people were waiting to hear was whether or not another recession is on the horizon. Duy and Kralj said no, a recession is not imminent. In fact we have at least another three to five years before we see another correction.

"Economies don't die of old age. They die because they get over heated," says Kralj.

Guarding Your Brand: Tips for Trademark Protection

By: Kurt Barker, Karnopp Petersen LLP

Your business's intellectual property can be its most valuable asset. In particular, a trademark or service mark can mean everything to a business: your brand, your image and more.

But how do you protect it from the competition? And how do you work to avoid the fate of many local businesses who receive a threatening letter from a "trademark bully," sometimes years after launch, demanding that they drop their name/logo or face a crushing lawsuit?

CHOOSE A UNIQUE MARK.

Trademarks should distinguish the source of a good or product. Common names of a product or service generally don't qualify for protection... be creative! Invent a word or choose an arbitrary mark that has nothing to do with the product, such as Apple for computers. Strong, distinctive marks strengthen your legal protection and can also attract client attention.

DO YOUR DUE DILIGENCE.

Even the best Google search wiz can't match the thoroughness of a comprehensive review by a trademark search firm, which can catch similarities you'd never imagine. Having that search ran and reviewed by legal counsel may cost less than you think, and is almost always cheaper than fighting a claim (or re-branding to avoid one) down the road.

REGISTER YOUR MARK.

State registrations are available, but just about every business — even local — should consider the benefits of registration with the U.S. Patent and Trademark Office. Those benefits include: a legal presumption that you own the mark (a potential defensive shield against a bully, or offensive sword against a copy-cat competitor); nationwide notice of your claim to the mark; the legal right to use the ® symbol; and more. There can be downsides to attempting registration before you've done your homework, though. Again, a little legal advice in this area can go a long way.

Curious about other steps you can take to guard your brand? Check out the blog entries from Karnopp Petersen's e-TIP (Emerging Business, Technology and Intellectual Property) team at karnopp.com/blog, or give us a call, (541) 382-3011.

Seriously DON'T JUST CULTIVATE the 9 to 5 Relationship

By Tim Casey, President & CEO of the Bend Chamber

Bend is a “people” town. As tourists come through our community, they quickly recognize that people here are smiling, residents and visitors exude good energy and say, “hi” as they pass you on the street.

And how could they not? Bend is a wonderful place to be. Travelers come here from all over the world to take in the beauty and breathe out an exhalation of stress. There are beautiful communities all over the nation, but it's the citizens of Bend who truly make the quality of life here sustainable.

Bend attracts a certain adventurous spirit. It's a mecca for those of us who are ready to live a different life than you find in larger cities. It's not that it's slower here, we simply choose to focus on life a little differently. We value the quality of where we are and we appreciate what our community has to offer.

In business, it is all about personal connection. It's the relationships that separate the good businesses from the great. The great businesses of our community don't just cultivate the 9 to 5 relationship. Owners and employees of the great businesses volunteer and sit on numerous nonprofits, recreate together and spend time supporting one another and celebrating successes. There is a real connection here in Bend that I haven't experienced anywhere else. People are genuine, they care about you and your family and they want you to succeed.

Casey moved from Portland to Bend, Oregon in 2002. He joined the Bend Chamber in January 2003 in the membership sales department and advanced to the sales manager. In March 2008, he took on his role as President and CEO.

“I found that service to others is my calling in life,” Casey said. “Making a difference in our community and helping entrepreneurs to be successful is a fulfilling career and worthy endeavor in life.”

Casey attended Chapman University. He also served in the U.S. Navy aboard the USS Enterprise aircraft carrier as an aircraft mechanic on the flight deck. After the service, he became the regional representative of Caterpillar; overseeing the Oregon/Washington Columbia Gorge and Southwest Washington.

Since his move to Central Oregon, Casey has been the board member of and has sat on multiple committees including: Bend Economic Development Advisory Board, City of Bend Budget Committee, Central Oregon Intergovernmental Council, Oregon State Chamber of Commerce, Western Association of Chamber Executives, Leadership Bend and the Bend Business Political Action Committee. He was the founding member and past president of the Bend Chamber Toastmaster Club and participated in Swinging with the Stars, a dance contestant to benefit Central Oregon Sparrow Clubs, in 2012.

When not wearing a button down and slacks, Casey pursues his passion for fly fishing. He tries to escape three to four times a week during the summer months to fish along the Deschutes River.

Mortgage Lending, DEMYSTIFIED!

By: Carl Salvo, President Mid Oregon Lending Inc.

As a mortgage broker, educating prospective home buyers is my favorite part of the job. Even after many years in the industry, I'm still surprised by some of the things I hear about why my clients are hesitant about the process.

Here are the top 5 misconceptions about home loans, demystified!

MYTH: "Getting a loan is harder now because banks don't want to lend money."

A bank that doesn't want to lend money probably won't be around very long! The home loans available today have always required full disclosure of income and assets by applicants. Getting a mortgage today will require that you verify several aspects of your fiscal profile, but the reward is that you get the best loans possible by doing so.

MYTH: "I need to wait and save. I don't have 20 percent down."

Waiting until you have 20 percent down may cost you more over the long run if home prices and interest rates continue to rise. Buyers can choose a monthly policy that "falls off" their loan once they have 20 percent equity, or they can choose a slightly higher rate where the Mortgage Insurance is "baked into" the rate.

MYTH: "I'm self-employed, so my tax returns don't show enough income to qualify."

If you've been self-employed for more than a year, consider having a mortgage broker calculate your buying power. What you report to the IRS and how a lender will analyze your income are very different. "Paper losses" like depreciation and many other line items on your tax returns that drop your taxable income are actually added back into your bottom line when qualifying for a home loan.

MYTH "I can't qualify because my credit isn't perfect."

Lenders realize that life happens. A bill gets missed or maybe the housing collapse in 2008 resulted in a major derogatory event in your credit history. It's not the end of the world, and even if you're not ready to buy now, consider having your credit history reviewed by a knowledgeable broker.

MYTH "There's no rush, the government will keep rates low."

Our government does NOT control mortgage rates. Mortgage Rates can and do change daily and the sale of Mortgage Backed Securities (MBS) and their demand on the open market is what predicates the rates consumers will be offered. And as our economy continues to improve, you can expect that mortgage rates will rise.

Entrepreneurial Ecosystem

TAP INTO THE YOUNG PROFESSIONALS NETWORK | BENDCHAMBER.ORG

By: Rachael Rees van den Berg, Bend Chamber Communications Coordinator

Bend is an entrepreneurial hot bed with a well-developed entrepreneurial ecosystem to help you start and grow your business. Business support organizations including the Bend Chamber of Commerce, the Small Business Development Center at Central Oregon Community College and Economic Development of Central Oregon, are here to get you connected with the local business community.

Events like Ignite Bend, the Bend UnConference and StartUp Weekend – where budding entrepreneurs can pitch an idea, form a team and launch a startup company in 54 hours – foster innovative thinking and encourage entrepreneurship.

In fact, Bend received national recognition when Entrepreneur Magazine named Bend the next big city for entrepreneurship in 2012. The Kauffman Foundation also issued a report that placed Bend on a list of the top 25 metropolitan areas, in terms of per-capita density of high-tech startups, in the country.

Once you have decided to start a business, Bend has the resources to help you scale your company.

A number of industry clusters – groups of business that are located in an area and are part of a similar industry – are forming in the region. Bend currently has tech, bioscience, craft beer, outdoor industry and unmanned aerial vehicle clusters. There are also several emerging clusters including food processing and energy. These clusters provide training and education opportunities; create platforms for networking, mentorship and support; and help draw investment capital to the region.

Business accelerators and incubators such as FoundersPad and Bend Outdoor Worx help cultivate local talent. They offer mentor-led programs to help entrepreneurs understand and engage with their customers, learn how to develop a scalable business model and accelerate growth in the marketplace. And collaborative work spaces are forming to give entrepreneurs the opportunity to work in environments with other like-minded professionals.

There are a number of different avenues to capital. Central-Oregon based Cascade Angels Fund, a nascent year-round angel fund, typically invests between $50,000 and $200,000 in launch-stage companies throughout Oregon to drive economic growth and fuel prosperity. Seven Peaks Ventures, an early-stage venture capital fund located in Bend, is helping companies bridge the gap between Silicon Valley and Oregon by providing capital and plugging entrepreneurs into an extended network of investment and venture partners. And short-term debt financing can be obtained through Craft3.

Bend is also the host of the Bend Venture Conference. With total investments exceeding $1 million, BVC set a new record this year with the most cash, investments and prizes awarded at an angel conference in the Pacific Northwest. Concept-stage finalists competed for a $10,000 cash prize from BendBroadband, while launch-stage finalists competed for $896,000 in investments.

And programs at Central Oregon Community College and the new Oregon State University-Cascades Campus, which is scheduled to launch its freshman and sophomore level classes in fall 2015, will provide your company with a pool of skilled workers.

So what are you waiting for? Bend is ready for you and your business.

THE BEND CHAMBER TO REPRESENT THE REGION IN SALEM

The Bend Chamber's mission is to enhance the economic vitality of Bend. But starting last year, its work began to expand beyond the city limits and into the region as a whole.

By: Rachael Rees van den Berg, Bend Chamber Communications Coordinator

"We have members all over Central Oregon," said Tim Casey, president and CEO of the Bend Chamber. "Our members have employees who live in other cities and we have relationships with many government entities and organizations which cover Deschutes County."

The shift to encompass the region began last January at the retreat for the Bend Chamber Board. "The focus was to look into the community, identify challenges and opportunities and set goals to do just one great thing which would impact our community and help make Bend a better place to do business," Casey said, referring to the retreat. "As we talked, we realized that we all considered our community to be Central Oregon and not just the city limits of Bend."

Identifying this, the board broadened its scope in how the Bend Chamber could make a difference. "Our solution was to expand our Legislative Committee and our outreach to the community to help become a regional advocate for business to the legislature in Salem," Casey said.

The board began developing connections with organizations across Central Oregon to elicit feedback on the legislative issues those organizations may face in 2015.

"The feedback across the community has been positive and inspiring," he said. "We are stronger together and developing a sense of team for our community will help us deliver a more powerful message to the Oregon State Legislature."

The Bend Chamber Legislative Committee has its hands full this next session and is ready to get to work. With the leadership of Jamie Christman, the Bend Chamber is bringing together all the community needs.

"The goal is to develop a game plan to help ensure the voice of Central Oregon is heard in Salem," Casey said.

The Bend Chamber's priority is to Create a Strong Local Economy. The strength of our voice is in our numbers and we represent over 1,300 businesses with more than 23,000 employees in the area. The Bend Chamber believes the business voice should be heard by government, and has taken action on several issues on behalf of the business community.

HERE IS JUST A SAMPLE OF WHAT THE BEND CHAMBER HAS DONE FOR YOU:

- SPEAKING OUT ON ORDINANCES WHICH COULD IMPACT BUSINESSES, INCLUDING UPDATING THE SIGN CODE ORDINANCE SO IT'S MORE BUSINESS FRIENDLY.
- SUPPORTED ODOT, REGION 4 FEDERAL STIMULUS PROJECT FOR THE HIGHWAY 372 PAVEMENT PRESERVATION PROJECT BECAUSE OF ITS ECONOMIC VALUE TO THE COMMUNITY.
- SUPPORTED HYDROPOWER PORTION OF THE CITY OF BEND SURFACE WATER PROJECT.
- SUPPORTED GO BOND MEASURE WHILE RAISING CONCERNS FOR THE COMMUNITY'S FUTURE INFRASTRUCTURE.
- BROUGHT FORWARD CONCERNS ON LEGISLATION IN SALEM RELATING TO LAND USE POLICIES, EMPLOYMENT, EMPLOYER'S RIGHTS, AND UNNECESSARY FEES FOR BUSINESSES AND CONSUMERS TO STATE REPRESENTATIVES.
- INSTRUMENTAL IN THE DEVELOPMENT OF THEBENDBUSINESSADVOCATEPOSITION.
- SPEARHEADED CITY PERMITTING FEE REDUCTIONS FOR SMALL BUSINESS RELOCATION WITHIN BEND.

Education

Higher education and business go hand in hand in the high desert.

Benjamin Franklin once said,
“An investment in knowledge pays the best interest.”

Bend residents whole heartedly agree education is the key to the unlocking the future. Whether you are looking for pre-K or college level courses to continue your education, we've got the classroom for you.

Citizens of Bend believe education is the cornerstone for any community to continue to thrive and prosper.

This is shown in a variety of ways including state-of-the-art facilities for students, continued support of K-12 education through levies and bond measures for improvements, community donations and grants for higher education, and a community-wide effort to make a four-year university, OSU-Cascades, a reality.

Education and business tend to go hand in hand. Both Central Oregon Community College (COCC) and the OSU-Cascades Campus pride themselves on working with businesses to see what classes and programs are necessary for the development of the local workforce. They also look at trends to see what might be needed for the future of the community.

Businesses know employees that stay current in their education will continue to grow and thrive and help their businesses prosper. Employers also look at the education connections as a dedicated source for new hires.

Besides the local colleges and universities, there is also abundance of education opportunities for businesses. As mentioned in our Business Section, we have a variety of different business organizations, such as the Bend Chamber, that offer different educational trainings for businesses and their employees at every level.

LEADERSHIP BEND

Imagine getting a crash course on a community from its history to local hot button issues and having the chance to talk with key leaders one-on-one in just nine months. Sound intimidating or maybe too good to be true? Leadership Bend delivers that and so much more as it immerses its participants in everything revolving around the community of Bend and Deschutes County. Whether new to the region or having lived here for decades, this course will soften the learning curve.

As mentioned, participants connect one-on-one with elected officials and key business leaders while talking about the issues impacting residents today and getting the inside scoop. Leadership Bend goes behind the scenes and investigates topics from all sides.

“Above all, we work hard to develop well-rounded leaders,” says Jamie Christman, Director of Leadership Bend. “Graduates of this program will become part of the Leadership Bend alumni who go on to serve on various community boards, commissions, and are involved in key decision-making positions.”

While the program focuses intently on learning about the community in which we live, Leadership Bend also goes one step further in the development of leadership skills. Participants in the program discover their natural talents as leaders and learn to use those abilities when creating legacy projects to benefit the community.

LEADERSHIP BEND

During the full-day sessions scheduled monthly, participants work together with civic-minded leaders to expand their network of contacts and resources to increase their breadth of knowledge about community opportunities. The relationships developed within the classes themselves last a lifetime. Many Leadership Bend alumni can attest to the fact they still stay in contact with their former classmates.

When local organizations are looking to fill vacant board seats, they often reach out to the Leadership Bend program because they know how well-rounded and knowledgeable Leadership Bend participants are about the community.

Don't believe us? Here's just a sample of what people have to say about this program:

“Every day, I find another way that the training I received in Leadership Bend applies to my life as a business leader, a community member, and a mom. The people I met in my class - many are now my lifelong friends. I always recognize someone I know from class - either a speaker or class member or alum - whether it's our HOA meeting or dinner downtown. I love the feeling of connectedness and purpose the program has given me, and I know I'll be a better leader for both my company and the causes I care about in the future.” – Stephanie Senner, BendBroadband -2014 Class President

“Leadership Bend (LB) was exactly what I was looking for to get engaged in Civic as well as other community issues. I can't think of a facet of living in Bend that LB did not cover from local politics, economics and even finding ways to get involved in non-profits. It was an immersion into everything Bend and meeting some of the key people that are the current leaders in respective areas. LB has paved the way for me to get involved in areas of personal importance to me as well as staying connected to things that I may not have enough time in the day to get fully involved with but may want to keep a 30,000 ft. eye on.” – Gary North, R&H Construction – Class of 2014

COCC's Technology Education Center Launches CUTTING EDGE PROGRAMS

By Central Oregon Community College

For decades, timber, tourism and recreation dominated Central Oregon's economy. In recent years, technology-focused businesses have helped diversify the region's portfolio. With the opening of Central Oregon Community College's Redmond Technology Education Center, students and businesses alike will have access to resources and education in support of this flourishing sector of the economy.

The 34,000-square-foot center was specifically designed to offer technology-based programs that train and/or re-train residents. The innovative building also allows for flexibility to adjust to future program needs. The programs center on careers that allow for family-wage jobs.

"When COCC is looking at new programs to offer our communities, the first criteria is employability of graduates in living-wage jobs," says Matt McCoy, vice president for administration.

In addition to COCC planners and an advisory committee, COCC also partnered with area businesses to ensure programs were meeting the demands of the area's economy. They focused on offering curriculum required for well-trained employees in high-tech areas.

The Automotive Technology in Electronics and Diagnostics (TED) program focuses on hybrid power systems, clean diesel and on-board networking.

The Technology Center offers multiple vehicle bays that allow for hands-on learning, complete with a video system so everyone in the class is able to see what is being taught. Students obtain "real life" experiences with area car dealerships. TED also partners with the Redmond high schools and community colleges throughout Oregon.

Another program in development is Non Destructive Technology and Inspection (NDT/I). Classes will train students in a set of techniques that look for possible defects in parts without destroying the final product. This associate degree will focus on the aviation and medical field because of local industry connections.

The Center for Entrepreneurial Excellence and Development (CEED) program and the Small Business Development Center (SBDC) will also be housed in the building.

The Technology Center building, designed by BBT Architects, not only houses technology programs, but is also on the leading edge of technological and sustainable practices. It is the first Earth Advantage commercial building to receive the platinum certification in Central Oregon.

The Redmond Technology Education Center gives students the opportunity to pursue a career in technology in a state-of-the-art building, while allowing them to recreate in the outdoor paradise of Central Oregon.

About OSU-Cascades

OSU-Cascades is a branch campus of Oregon State University and provides students personalized instruction, excellence in academics and innovative research, and the lifelong advantages of a premier research university. OSU-Cascades is the only accredited baccalaureate and graduate degree granting institution based in Central Oregon.

A Future Campus

What began as a 2+2 program with Central Oregon Community College is expanding to a four-year university. OSU-Cascades welcomes its first freshmen in fall 2015. The new campus is slated to open in fall 2016.

New Location

The 10-acre campus site on Bend's west side – a ½ mile from the Graduate & Research Center and near trails, athletic and medical facilities, and shopping – will encourage public-private partnerships and focus state resources on academic, research, housing and dining facilities.

Enrollment

The campus will be home to up to 1,890 students. By 2025 the branch campus plans to expand to 3,000 to 5,000 students to meet state enrollment goals. Students will come from Central Oregon, Oregon, the U.S. and international destinations.

Faculty and Research

A growing faculty includes excellent teachers and researchers who address local and global challenges.

Degree Programs

A growing list of academic programs will continue to reflect Central Oregon's economy and natural resources, and produce skilled graduates.

Sustainability

Walking, bike share and rideshare programs will minimize vehicle miles traveled and give students, faculty and staff new options for getting to, from and around campus. It's the beginning of a broad commitment to sustainable practices.

Our Community

Community support and collaboration are helping shape the new campus so that it enhances the community and creates a culture of higher education.

Impact

Bend is the largest metropolitan area in Oregon without a four-year university. A university will support Central Oregon's educational, economic and cultural goals, and serve as a partner for businesses, non-profits and the community.

A four-year university for Central Oregon

OSU-Cascades was born out of a 30-year community effort to bring a university to the region. After record enrollment growth and philanthropic support, in 2012 the Oregon University System endorsed OSU-Cascades' expansion. In 2013, the Oregon State Legislature approved capital funding to establish a four-year university campus.

Based on fall 2014 enrollment, unless otherwise noted

1,172 enrolled students, including 980 upper division and graduate students, and 192 attending classes at COCC

BEND LA-PINE School District

Submitted by: Alandra Johnson, Communication Specialist

Bend-La Pine Schools' Graduation Rate Outpacing State's: District on steady track of improvement during the past five years

Students at Bend-La Pine Schools are graduating at a higher rate than their peers around the state, according to new data released today from the Oregon Department of Education. For 2013-14, the graduation rate at Bend-La Pine Schools was 77.2 percent, compared with 72 percent for the state. During the past five years, the district's graduation rate has steadily improved, up nearly 9 percentage points since posting a rate of 68.6 percent in 2008-09.

"The steady track of growth in our graduation rate is a tribute to our district's focus on all students from all backgrounds," said Superintendent Ron Wilkinson. Wilkinson credits several changes in the district for the improvement, including: staff-mentoring programs; focus on results for every student; and emphasis on college and career readiness.

Graduation rates for the district's high schools varied, but generally exceeded the overall state rate. The graduation rates for local high schools were: 92.5 percent at Summit High School; 85.9 percent at Mountain View High School; 83 percent at Bend Senior High School; and 71.7 percent at La Pine High School.

Marshall High School, where many students enter credit-deficient for graduation, had a four-year graduation rate of 33.3 percent and a five-year graduation rate of 48.9 percent.

About the Numbers: The graduation rate tracks students beginning in ninth grade and measures how many of those students graduate within four years. The rate is adjusted for students moving in or out of the district. Students who take five years to graduate are included in a five-year graduation rate. The district's five-year graduation rate has also climbed steadily, increasing from 68.9 percent in 2009-10 to 82 percent in 2013-14.

RECENT FOUR-YEAR GRADUATION RATE DATA FOR BEND-LA PINE SCHOOLS:

This year's graduation rate is about 1 percentage point less than the district reported in 2012-13, but continues an overall upward trend.

2013-14: 77.2 percent
2010-11: 68.2 percent
2012-13: 78.6 percent
2009-10: 72.8 percent
2011-12: 72.2 percent
2008-09: 68.6 percent

WORLD CLASS Healthcare in Bend

We work hard, and we play hard, so sometimes, mishaps are bound to happen. However, Bend boasts some of the best medical treatment facilities in the Pacific Northwest. Located on Bend's eastside, St. Charles Health System, has been named "among the best in the nation" in heart, cancer, orthopedic, and neurosurgical care. St. Charles Health System-Bend has more than 350 physicians on its medical staff and 200 visiting medical staff representing nearly 40 specialties. The system has over 3,400 caregivers in just Bend alone! And it's the only Level II Trauma Center east of the Cascades.

For cardiac and cardiovascular needs, the St. Charles Heart and Lung Center provides a comprehensive range of care under one roof. The center includes cardiology, cardiothoracic surgeons, pulmonology, pediatric cardiology, electrophysiology, cardiopulmonary rehabilitation, pulmonary function testing, cardiac ultrasound, heart rhythm management, and much more.

The second largest medical facility, Bend Memorial Clinic (BMC), is also located in east Bend across the street from St. Charles and has satellite clinics on the Westside of Bend, in the Old Mill District, as well as in Redmond and Sisters. BMC has more than 100 experienced physicians that cover 30 specialties from Cardiology to Pediatrics to Urgent Care and everything in between. The clinic also has some of the most advanced imaging and diagnostic equipment in the area.

Let's turn and take a look at a few other medical care providers including The Center for Orthopedic & Neurosurgical Care & Research. This company has been in Bend for 61 years and has 20 physicians and 15 mid-level positions on staff including specialists in orthopedic surgery, neurosurgery, physical medicine/rehabilitation and occupational medicine. You'll often see physicians from The Center on the local sidelines of high school athletic events. And you might not realize this, but The Center physicians also routinely travel to rural Oregon patients who don't have the time or means to travel to Bend. They visit such areas as John Day, Burns, Prineville, Madras, La Pine, and Sisters, just to name a few.

We've covered quite a few of our medical facilities in just this brief section, but believe us when we say this is just the tip of the iceberg in Bend. But hey, don't take our word for it, just check out the Medical Category located in the back of this magazine.

TEMPERATURE

Because of Bend's high altitude and crisp, clear air, evening temperatures average 30° to 40° below the daytime highs. Evenings are generally cool, even in the summer, requiring sweaters or jackets. Annual temperature extremes show that only one year out of five has a temperature colder than -17° or warmer than 100°.

PRECIPITATION

Bend's average annual precipitation is less than 12 inches – over half of which falls between November and February, often as snow. Brief, and often unexpected, thunderstorms usually provide most of the summer rain. The average annual snowfall is 33.8 inches. Snow rarely accumulates to more than a few inches in depth nor lies on the ground for an extended period. Snow depth in Bend exceeds 24 inches in only one winter out of twenty.

At the Mt. Bachelor Ski Resort, 22 miles southwest of Bend, snow normally reaches depths of 160 to 180 inches.

SUNSHINE

Bend has the highest average number of sunny days in the state. With an average of 158 days clear days per year and an additional 105 days that are mostly sunny.

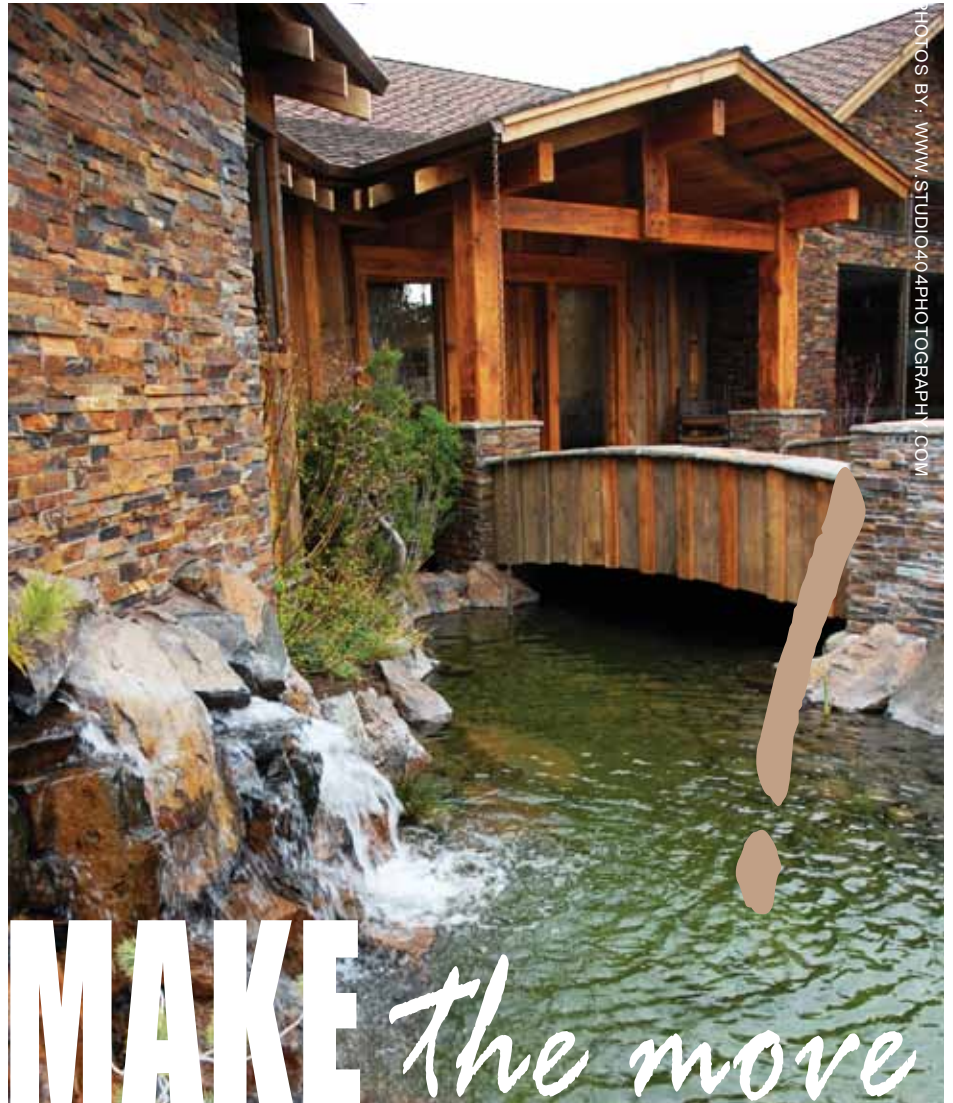

Many of the remaining days provide substantial sunshine.

WIND

Surface winds prevail out of the South and Southeast from October to February, then West and Northwest for the remaining months. Wind speeds average from 5 to 7 mph most months.

GROWING SEASON

Because severe frosts have occurred as late as May 31 and as early as September 1, the general advice is to plan for a 92-day growing season. Any transplanting of annual bedding plants in Bend before Memorial Day involves some risk. Central Oregon has been known to experience some freezing temperatures during the months of June, July, and August.

It's the spark of an idea.

It's the ideas we shape together, the alliances we forge and the legacy we pass on.

It's access to new markets while preserving quality of life. It's not just the place we live but the place we're all creating. And it's why we work to connect and cultivate the business community in Central Oregon.
